EU BUSINESS SCHOOL MBA PROGRAM RANKED IN TOP 150 WORLDWIDE AND #1 FOR CLASS AND FACULTY DIVERSITY

- EU Business School's (EU) MBA is placed in the top 150 MBA programs globally in the prestigious QS MBA rankings for 2023.
- EU's MBA program is rated #1 worldwide for class and faculty diversity. This excellent position acknowledges our cross-cultural community of 100+ nationalities and commitment to equality in business.
- EU scores over 90% in entrepreneurship, highlighting EU Business School as a platform for innovative new business.

EU Business School (EU) has once again been recognized for its exceptional MBA program in the prestigious QS global rankings. The institution is placed within the top 150 MBA programs worldwide and ranks #45 in Europe. Receiving a maximum score of 100% for number of nationalities for its MBA program, EU cements its reputation as a multicultural institution that fosters international business understanding. In addition, the program obtains a full score of 100% for its number of female students, ranking #1 for class and faculty diversity in the world. These outstanding achievements reflect EU's continuous dedication to diversity and equal opportunities for students around the world.

With regard to employability, EU is ranked within the top 100 institutions globally, simultaneously securing its position in the top 25 within Europe. This year, 490 employers from around the world nominated EU Business School. These excellent results are a testament to the trust that employers place in EU graduates to bring value and know-how to their companies. Leading business school hiring companies such as Google, Siemen and McKinsey participate in the selection of institutions for QSR's employability indicator survey.

EU Business School also scored over 90% for entrepreneurship at the global level. Entrepreneurship remains at the forefront of EU's educational priorities, with company visits, business case studies and industry expert conferences forming key educational pillars that translate into real-world success.

Managing Director of EU Business School, Mr. Carl Craen, expressed his pride at this year's excellent ranking results: "We are thrilled that QS has recognized the strength of our institution and our commitment to diversity and internationality, which are core aspects of the EU experience for students and faculty alike. In addition, our dedication to a balanced gender representation is crucial to forging future workplace equality. We remain driven to provide our students with the knowledge, entrepreneurial mindset and tools they require to disrupt and succeed in today's business environment."

The QS MBA Rankings are compiled by QS, a trusted independent organization with over 25 years of experience in assessing, ranking and informing students about business programs on a global scale. The 2022 ranking evaluated 300 MBA programs from 47 different countries. QS used the following five indicator groups in their analysis: employability (40%), return on investment (20%), entrepreneurship and alumni outcomes (15%), thought leadership (15%), and class and faculty diversity (10%) for its rigorous assessment of the programs.
