- For the ninth consecutive year, EU Business School's (EU) online MBA is ranked number one worldwide and its on-campus MBA listed in the top tier by CEO Magazine.
- The outstanding results achieved in CEO Magazine's 2023 Global MBA Rankings reaffirm EU as a top international business school offering innovative programs designed to prepare students for the workplace of the future.
- CEO Magazine analyzed 239 different programs in over 120 schools from 24 countries to produce this year's Global MBA Rankings.

EU Business School (EU) is proud to announce that its online MBA program has been ranked number one worldwide in the 2023 online MBA rankings by CEO Magazine for the ninth year running. In addition, EU's on-campus MBA ranked in the top tier of programs for a ninth consecutive year, while its DBA program featured in the 2023 Global DBA Listing, which highlights the best DBA providers globally. These outstanding results are testament to EU's innovative, experiential learning approach and its commitment to providing a first-class business education to an international student body.

CEO Magazine, a leading premier business and luxury publication with a global readership, has been showcasing top business schools from around the world since it launched in 2008. Its annual Global MBA Rankings are designed to help students make informed decisions on the best MBA programs available all over the world. For this edition, it analyzed 239 different programs in over 120 schools from 24 countries across North America, Europe, Australia, New Zealand and the BRICS, assessing institutions using fact-based criteria that included quality of faculty, international diversity, class size, accreditation, international exposure, professional development and gender parity.

Mr. Carl Craen, managing director of EU Business School, was delighted with this result, stating, "This accolade stands testament, once again, to our commitment to providing the very best business education for our community. The fact that we have topped the CEO's Global MBA Rankings for nine consecutive years demonstrates the effectiveness of our experiential learning approach and the innovation that underpins our programs in the most in-demand areas of business."
