EU PARTNER, THE UNIVERSITY OF DERBY RANKED BY THE GUARDIAN

EU Business School (EU) is extremely proud to announce that our academic partner institution, the University of Derby has been ranked within the top 50 UK universities in The Guardian's 2017 University Guide.

This annual list, which brings together the leading institutions in the UK has placed Derby 48th out of 119 institutions, moving up an astounding 25 places since last year. They have also recently been nominated as a top 10 university for teaching quality by The Times and Sunday Times University League Table. Derby has an 88.8% teaching satisfaction rating and an 86.2% satisfaction of courses among students questioned. The Guardian ranking also takes into account six other important factors such as the student to staff ratio.

EU is entering into its second year of collaboration with the University of Derby, allowing students to complete a Bachelor of Arts (Hons) degree in six majors from our Munich and Barcelona campuses. We are delighted to continue this fulfilling relationship with an institution that holds itself to a standard of excellence and continues to excel in providing quality academics to students.
