EU BUSINESS SCHOOL ACKNOWLEDGED AS WORLDWIDE LEADER IN CLASS AND FACULTY DIVERSITY AND SCORES 99% IN ENTREPRENEURSHIP IN QS MBA RANKINGS

- EU Business School's (EU) MBA is ranked in the top 140 MBA programs globally and #43 in Europe in the QS MBA rankings 2022.
- EU's MBA program is once again rated #1 worldwide for class and faculty diversity in recognition of its multicultural community of 100+ nationalities and its female representation.
- EU scores 99% in entrepreneurship and 89% in employment rate, demonstrating the strength of our innovative teaching methods and the consistently high value of an EU education.

EU Business School (EU) proudly announces that its MBA program again received high scores from QS in their 2022 rankings, consolidating its position as one of the top 140 MBA programs worldwide and #43 in Europe. These rankings are a vivid illustration of how EU's hands-on instructional methodology, outstanding faculty and international atmosphere make EU a global leader in business education.

For the fourth year running, EU has been ranked as the worldwide leader in class and faculty diversity due to its female representation and the multicultural nature of both its faculty and student body. This is a clear testament to the success of the institution's overall mission of helping students to develop a flexible, global mindset to prepare them for the realities of international business.

Of the main indicators, the institution received a score of 99% for entrepreneurship, highlighting its support of new business ideas and its entrepreneurial student body. In addition, the business school was recognized for its high employment record achieving a score of 89.3% for employment rate, attesting to the ultimate value of an EU education and the heights of success reached in numerous sectors and industries by our talented graduates. Of note are the 300+ nominations by international employers. The strength of a business education at EU was further supported with the school achieving 23rd position in Europe for return on investment.

Responding to the news, vice president and managing director of EU Business School, Mr. Carl Craen stated, "We are very proud that QS has again given our MBA program top rankings and are delighted to receive their recognition of our commitment to delivering an outstanding practical business education to our diverse, driven community of future global business leaders."

The QS MBA Rankings are compiled by QS, a trusted independent organization with over 25 years of experience in assessing, ranking, and informing students about business programs on a global scale. The 2022 ranking evaluated 286 MBA programs from 45 different countries. QS used the following five indicator groups in their analysis: employability (40%), return on investment (20%), entrepreneurship and alumni outcomes (15%), thought leadership (15%), and class and faculty diversity (10%) for its rigorous assessment of the programs..
